Welcome from the Chair

Prof. Hall Bjørnstad

Charlotte F. Gerrard Memorial Prize

Prof. Margot Gray

Sara Albert (PhD Student: French/Francophone Studies)

This award honors the memory of Charlotte F. Gerrard, who was a lecturer and professor of French in the Department from 1965 to 2000. She earned her PhD from the University of Pittsburgh in 1966 and was a specialist of 20th century French theatre. In addition to her research and teaching on theatre, she acted in plays as a young student and then directed several readings of French plays during her time at IU. She is remembered for her love of teaching and her lasting friendships with former students throughout the world.

French and Francophone Studies Graduate Award Prof. Oana Panaïté

Hicham Bouhlal (PhD Student: French/Francophone Studies)

Grace P. Young Undergraduate Awards

Amelia (Millie) Erickson (Senior: Law, Marketing, International Business, & French) Prof. Brett Bowles

Anastasia Kersh (Senior: Media & French) Prof. Guillaume Ansart

Leyla King (Junior: Psychology & French)

Grace P. Young, whose great-grandfather David H. Maxwell was one of the founders of Indiana University, served as an Instructor of French from 1917-1923; and as Professor from 1923 until her retirement in 1956. She collaborated with her husband Bert Young on the publication in 1947 of Le Registre de la Grange, 1659-1685, an account of the theatrical activities of Molière's troupe. It was through a bequest of copies of the Registre that the Grace P. Young Fund was established in 1970.

Grace P. Young Graduate Award

Prof. Laurent Dekydtspotter

Kai Owens (PhD Student: French Linguistics)

Pirandello, Gadda, Prezzolini, and Pasolini, among others. In 2004, Professor Ragusa gave a generous donation to the Italian program at IUB, which she valued for its quality and productivity. This award is for graduate students in Italian who have demonstrated a remarkable scholarly ability in their courses as well as in their degree examinations.

Carol Ann Brush Hofstadter Memorial Scholarship Mr. Vincenzo Dimaggio
Olivia Arzano (Sophomore: Biochemistry & Italian)
Aaron McCann (Senior: Computer Science & Physics)

Carol Brush studied Italian and art history at Indiana University and in 1977 spent a summer in Bologna, Italy, through an IU exchange program. She adored Italy -- its people, its culture, and its language -- and in 1993, she and her husband Doug chose to spend Doug's sabbatical year in Trento with their two young children, Danny and Monica. After just three months there, Carol died very unexpectedly. Despite the tragedy, Doug and the children remained in Trento for the rest of the sabbatical year, and as a consequence Danny and Monica became fluent in Italian -- a gift from their mother. In the wake of Carol's death, her family and friends created a scholarship in her memory, so that more students could discover Bologna and learn to love it as she did.

Trustees Teaching Award Prof. Hall Bjørnstad
Prof. Liz Hebbard

The TTA is funded by the Board of Trustees and is awarded to the 6% of tenured and tenure-track faculty members at IU-Bloomington who are deemed the best teachers in a given year.

Edoardo A. Lèbano Memorial Award Mr. Nicolò Salmaso
Emily Landsittel (Senior: Psychology)

Professor Edoardo Lèbano, a native of Italy who earned his PhD at the Catholic University of America, was professor of Italian in the Department from 1971 to 2000 and passed away in late November 2020. Through the years, he served in a variety of capacities: as assistant and interim chair, co-founder and director of the Center for Italian Studies, director of Italian language instruction, director of undergraduate studies, and resident director of the IU programs in Bologna and Florence. We are pleased to honor his legacy with this award.

Lander MacClintock Memorial Award Prof. Massimo Scalabrini
Haley Baker (Senior: World Languages Education)

Lander MacClintock was a professor of both French and Italian in the Department from 1920 to his retirement in 1960. He received BA, MA, and PhD degrees from the University of Chicago, and his scholarly works and editions include The Age of Pirandello (1951), Sainte-Beuve's Critical Theory and Practice, and The Contemporary Drama of Italy. He was a life-long devotee of the arts and music, from his early days of touring with the San Carlos Opera Company to his organization of a special exhibit in conjunction with the Orchestre National de France performing on campus in 1948. The MacClintock award is given in alternate years to a student of French and of Italian.

Eneria Ruggeri Undergraduate Award Prof. Karolina Serafin
Grace Eva Richardson (Senior: Fine Arts, Studio Art & Spanish)

Eneria Ruggeri (Rome, 1922-1989), was a passionate and refined connoisseur of Italian literature, art and cinema, with a specific interest in drama and poetry. She volunteered as a nurse during WWII and, together with her family, she helped hide Italian citizens of Jewish origin from the Nazis. During the liberation of Rome, she worked with the pro-Allies Resistance movement. This award is for students who have demonstrated a superior ability in their Italian classes as well as a clear passion for the study of Italian language and culture.

Peter Cannings Memorial Prize Prof. Kevin Rottet
Jennifer Cox (PhD Student: French Linguistics)

A British citizen, Peter Cannings studied French and linguistics at the School of Economics and Political Science of the University of London and then received a Maîtrise and Doctorat de troisième cycle at the Université de Provence in Aix-en-Provence. He joined the faculty of the Department in 1974 where he distinguished himself as an enthusiastic and creative teacher and a highly talented scholar in theoretical linguistics. He helped found the journal Studies in French Linguistics but did not live to see its first issue published in 1978. His life was cut short at the age of 27 by a car accident after less than four years at IU, in October 1977. His family helped establish this award in his memory.

John K. Hyde Award

Newen Antinao (Senior: Biochemistry, Mathematics) Prof. Liz Hebbard
Angela Buck (MS Student: Information Systems) Prof. Eric MacPhail

John Kenneth Hyde received his PhD in French from Indiana University in 1965. He taught at Oberlin College 1962-67 until returning to IU as professor of French from 1967 until his death in 1983. He was particularly interested in teaching French and Québécois civilization and culture, and also spent time developing the Department's business French class during the later years of his career. He served as faculty advisor for the French House and as Director of Graduate Studies. The John K. Hyde award was first given in 1985.

Eneria Ruggeri Graduate Award

Sonia Cani (PhD Student: Italian)

Albert and Agnes Kuersteiner Memorial Prize

Parnasi Bandyopadhyay (Junior: French & Microbiology) Prof. Barbara Vance
Madeline Braun (Sophomore: International Law & Inst) Prof. Liz Hebbard

This award was established in 1980 by IU alumnae Ruth Kuersteiner Fink and Elsa Kuersteiner Martin in memory of their parents, Agnes Duncan Kuersteiner (IU class of 1907) and Dr. Albert Kuersteiner, who was Professor of French here from 1898 until his death in 1917. The award consists of French books selected by the Department and the student.

Quentin M. Hope Memorial Award

Nadia Scarf (Senior: International Studies, Journalism) Prof. Hall Bjørnstad
Anna Trautmann (Junior: Public & Environmental Affairs) Prof. Oana Panaïté

Quentin M. Hope was professor of French in the Department of French and Italian from 1956 to 1988, serving as chair from 1965 to 1977. His life-long passion was 17th-century French literature, in particular the writing of Charles de Saint-Evremond, and his PhD thesis at Columbia University explored the work of this French soldier and essayist. He went on to publish two monographs on Evremond as well as many articles on the free-thinking libertines.

Graduate Student Service Awards

Prof. Hall Bjørnstad

Kai Owens (PhD Student: French Linguistics)
Miriam Burrascano (PhD Student: Italian)

The award was created in 2020 to recognize graduate students in our department who go the extra mile in assisting with our programs, representing their fellow students at the departmental and university levels, organizing events, and/or serving as mentors to other graduate students.

The award was renamed to honor Isabel Piedmont-Smith in 2023 who joined the Department of French and Italian at Indiana University-Bloomington in 1996, serving as Department Administrator from 1998 to 2022. Isabel was particularly dedicated to our graduate students whom she enthusiastically and thoughtfully welcomed to FRIT, helping to guide them through the challenges of academia and making them feel at home in our department, at IU, and in Bloomington.

Olga Ragusa Graduate Award

Prof. Marco Arnaudo

Nicolò Salmaso (PhD Student: Italian)

Dr. Olga Ragusa was Lorenzo Da Ponte Professor of Italian and Comparative literature at Columbia University, and she was one of the most important scholars of modern Italian culture and literature of the late 20th and early 21st centuries. The author of many books and articles whose topics range from the 1700s to the present, she published on Goldoni, Alfieri, Manzoni, Verga,
